Literature Festival 1.0

12th-14th Feb, 2026

Delhi University Literature Festival 1.0 (DULF) marks the genesis of a vibrant literary Parampara, envisioned by the Hon'ble Vice-Chancellor, Prof. Yogesh Singh, and brought to fruition through the collective spirit and dedicated efforts of the University of Delhi. Deeply rooted in India's civilisational wisdom and a tradition of intellectual excellence, the festival honours the past, engages meaningfully with the present and inspires the future of literary and cultural thought.

Emerging from this shared paradigm, DULF finds its guiding light in the ethos of "Nation First: Unity in Diversity." Anchored in Bharat's timeless spirit of Bharatiyata, the festival celebrates literature as the cultural conscience of the nation and a fertile ground for ethical citizenship. It is a confluence where voices from across this vibrant land come together in harmony, resonating with a shared national ethos. Through this collective dialogue, DULF reaffirms the University of Delhi as a living thread and a quiet architect of national thought and cultural renewal.

A LIVING LEGACY

As it enters its 104th year, the University of Delhi continues to nurture students, writers, teachers, scholars, and changemakers who have shaped the cultural conscience of Bharat. The festival embodies this rich intellectual heritage, reaffirming the enduring belief that literature not only reflects society but also possesses the power to reform it.

IN DIALOGUE WITH THE NATION

The University stands as an intellectual landscape where literature becomes a vibrant meeting ground of memory and imagination, tradition and transformation and a shared democratic spirit, shaping and redefining the evolving idea of the nation.

A CONSTELLATION OF VOICES

The festival brings together participants from various colleges, departments, faculties and the community at large, creating a vibrant atmosphere of India's intellectual and cultural diversity.

LITERATURE WITHOUT BORDERS

Literature moves beyond disciplines to connect ideas across science, technology, policy, and society, shaping informed and inclusive perspectives.

STUDENTS AS CULTURAL AMBASSADORS

Not merely spectators, students emerge as readers and performers, thinkers and curators of a living tradition.

A BELIEF THAT RESONATES

Our nation's greatest strength lies in its diversity. Here, languages converse, cultures collaborate and literary traditions converge in a meaningful celebration of a shared heritage.

LITERATURE BECOMES A BRIDGE SYNCHRONISING

- Heritage with aspiration
- Memory with imagination
- Individual voices with a shared national purpose
